This was scheduled for mid-July 2017 but at time of writing (24 th July) this had still not come through from the Scottish Government. A further two retirements (in January) required the posts to be assessed and advertised and as a result, one new Inspector was recruited and started work on 22nd of June so will take a bit of time to get up to speed. A service review was carried out in Q4 2016/17 and the introduction of outcomes is still on-going. Performance has improved in some areas but has required the use of agency staff since March '17, and the use of Aberdeen City and Argyll & Bute Councils to differing degrees as additional resources. Work is underway to try to secure a more permanent solution to the workforce /workload issues.
