PLACES NEED VISION

... creative approaches to planning for Councillors

Saturday 21st June 2008, 10am to 4 pm
The Teacher Building, Glasgow

The Scottish Government has enacted the Planning etc. (Scotland) Act 2006. The second National Planning Framework is in preparation and new arrangements for development planning and management are being put in place - there has never been a more exciting and challenging time for Scottish planning. Local Councillors now have new obligations and opportunities to provide the distinctive vision for their area. This special Conference aims to assist by opening up new possibilities, sharing experience and pinpointing sources of assistance.

Speakers will come from all the key players and will include ~

- Scottish Government
- COSLA
- Planning Aid for Scotland
- Built Environment Forum Scotland
- Royal Town Planning Institute

~ across three core topics:

Quality in Planning – Impact of Climate Change – Community Engagement

A 'Question Time' Panel will allow you to get answers to all those vital queries

Who should attend?

All local Councillors involved in spatial planning, and given the community interest in most planning matters that could extend to all Councillors, but especially Cabinet and Committee Members and Conveners for planning.

How to book?

The Conference is free thanks to funding support from the Scottish Government. Simply send your email contact details to pipa@rtpi.org.uk or phone 01789 763006 or visit www.rtpi.org.uk/rtpi_in_scotland/ Places are limited so please book now!
